DEDICATION

We dedicate the 1943 Tower
TO REVEREND MOTHER HELEN LUCAS

who has spread a mantle of serenity over us in a tortured world at war. We, her loving children, look to her for stability and quiet courage.

COLLEGE SONG

On the heights so proudly standing
 Strong against the blue,
 High towers gleam commanding,
 Loyal hearts beat true!
 For Manhattanville sing proudly,
 Swell the mighty song:
 'Til the echoes ring out loudly
 All the ages long.

Words by LAURETTA BREMNER '29

SENIOR SONG

See there she stands our Manhattan-
 ville,
 Sturdy and strong in the morning sky.
 Proudly we sing of our Manhattanville
 Under her standard that waves on high.

Here beneath her ivy-covered walls,
 Here within tradition's happy halls,
 Valiant daughters, Class of '43,
 Pledge their loyalty.

See there she stands our Manhattan-
 ville,
 Calm and serene in the evening glow,
 Forever changeless, though our love
 will grow.

Always the same, our Manhattanville,
 Ageless her fame, — our Manhattan-
 ville.

GREEN eyes, watching the pixies with their buckets of spring paint, belong to "Andy." Those same eyes, that watch the vibrant pattern of an unfolding design, belong to an artist. A lover of simplicity in people as well as things, Andy is as fresh as her sharp line and as deep as a splash of vermillion oil. Her varied interests never permit over-enthusiasm. She is quiet with a touch of gentleness, a dash of good taste, and an ample sprinkling of humor. To the college she has lent good will. Hockey and basketball teams were sidestepped only for work in the studio. The bridge game was foregone only for the final touch on her defense poster thesis. Such is our artist and success surely follows her footsteps.

KAY'S efficiency, her humor and gentleness, are just part of the faceted sides of her personality. Her charm lies in her graciousness, in her ability to commend zeal, yet not command it. A moment before curtain time we find Kay laughing heartily over the most hectic mishaps. It is this apparent carelessness that gives us the boost we need to face a critical Manhattanville audience. The success of "Romeo and Juliet" owes a great deal to her sympathetic interpretation of Friar Lawrence. It is with this same ease and charm that she faces the long hours in the lab — only to leave them with more vitality to encounter the next complication. She has the real Irish humor that sparkles in every wink of her eye. A courteous hostess, the competent career woman, an all around good sport, Kay cannot easily be replaced. We, the college, will not forget her.

MONICA ANGIER

The New House, Oak Avenue, Sevenoaks, Kent, England
Farmborough Hill, Farmborough, Hampshire

OUR very own 'Bundle from Britain', Monica has done more than she realizes to improve Anglo-American relations, at least as far as Manhattanville is concerned. Naturally talented in athletics she shines in hockey and LaCrosse, and gets winter sunburns from long hours of skiing. She has a little-girl look which is the bane of her existence, a love for Greenwich Village, an enviable ability to translate English into French, and a slow smile ending in a pair of dimples. But the thing we will remember best about Mon is her staunch defense of things British against the good-natured harrying of the Irish constituents. She leaves us to go home to England, and all our blessings go with her.

CATHERINE BAKER, E. de M.

536 Barry Avenue, Chicago, Illinois

Convent of the Sacred Heart, Chicago, Illinois

THE “windy city” sent Katie to Manhattanville. She filled the college with her charm, her own special friendliness, and above all, with that touch of common sense which makes her so particularly endearing. Katie is a competent gloom dispeller; one only has to watch her nose wrinkle just a bit as she summons her smile, and whisk, your woes have gone. Of long and enduring fame are those orchids; never did the most glamorous star that stepped off the East-bound train wear nearly so large, or nearly so beautiful flowers. Bright and gay, Katie has paved her path through college and through life with all the good things, with gentleness mingled with spirit, and laughter springing from joy, and understanding which always aids in friendships.

MARIE BLISH, E. de M.

18 Elk Avenue, New Rochelle, New York

New Rochelle High School, New Rochelle, New York

MARIE and Sally must have had a lot of laughs during these four years out of our perpetual inability to tell them apart. Even some of their own classmates cannot always be sure which is which. But it doesn't really matter who it is, for we love them both. Marie is the mathematician of the duo, with a mathematician's regard for details and fine points, and a flair for precision and neatness. This attention to details serves her well in arguments, which incidentally she loves, and most often wins. Practical and conscientious, she is also gay and friendly, loves excitement, fun, and especially, teasing her friends.

SALLY'S penchant is toward philosophy to balance her twin's talent for math. She is like Marie in many ways — in friendliness, sense of humor, love of life, but she is a little more quiet, a little more thoughtful. Always in a hurry to do this or get that finished, Sally seems to have a large supply of energy which never runs out. This energy shows up to good advantage at the various games, where she and Marie are dependable members of the cheering section. Manhattanville is going to miss its twins, and that surprised feeling of apparently seeing double. Perhaps if we had a few more years, we could have learned to tell them apart!

PAT is witty, cheerful and subtle in her humor. Bridge needs intelligence as well as good hands and Pat has the necessary requisites. She reigns supreme in the tea room for few can compete with that quiet, welcome greeting to us each morning. Pat can smile and make the most insignificant feel that here is a senior friend. She is equally at home in a history classroom as in a math course, for she more than excels in both. Thoughtfulness and kindness are a whole lot more than just words with Pat; they are Pat.

REFRESHING as an early spring crocus, Joanie is as lovely as she appears. We are forever reminded of an old-fashioned bouquet. Wholesome with a poet's whimsy, Joan is a promise to the older generation that the sweetness of a lady will never be passé. Her reserved and unpretentious manner belie her bright spirit and joviality. Besides willingness for work, for laughter, and for friendship, she possesses that rare combination of sincerity and ability. She has lent the spirit of real sportsmanship to the A.A. and the college has gained by it, and by the generosity of this unusual person.

COME with us along the road of fancy into late summer — a time of blue delphiniums lighted by the loveliness of soft, clear skies. In that aerial land of elfenfolk and hushed mystery, we can see a lone figure stealing into this world of reality; and we can recognize a "bonnie lass" with patrician grace and a dimpled, whimsical smile — all so inimitable and esteemed. Patty's unruffled serenity can cope with unexpected complications, tending to ease the strains of campus life, and a clever joke finds quick response in her amused chuckle. Fastidious in appearance, unique in personality, philosophical in outlook, she has been unassuming yet resolute in her work for Welfare, her class and the college. Above everything else, however, we believe that to know Patty is to know sterling gentility, which is an enriching distinction and a singular object of our appreciation.

ADELE could well qualify for the title of Manhattanville's jack-of-all-trades — for whenever any help is needed, she capably and generously steps in. This loyal Dodger fan from you-can-guess-where, is something of a human dynamo, for her energy seems inexhaustible. Her interests are of the deep, worthwhile variety: philosophy, the classics, and real culture; it is typical of Adele to be interested in the French people rather than only in their language, which is her major. Though a helpful and discerning critic for the English Club, she has the happy faculty of seeing the best in everybody. Indeed, what we appreciate most about Adele is her cheerful willingness to meet anyone more than halfway.

IF you should hear a voice tactfully but firmly reminding you of choir practice, that voice would be Dorsey's; for her own interest in music is so great that she generously wishes to share it with others. One of those amazing math majors who revel in formulae and x y z's, she has developed a taste for the practical and the essential which she has carried over into many fields. An extremely energetic person, she enjoys hockey and tennis, and dotes on long walks. Music is her primary interest, however — any form of classical music, and symphonies in particular. Dorsey herself reminds us somewhat of a Haydn symphony — pleasant . . . whimsical . . . graceful . . . cultured . . . reserved, but at times delightfully "surprise"-ing.

IF you want to find Martha, look for an irresistible laugh and a Boston accent. Probably she will be listening to the radio, or sitting on one end of the piano bench while Willy plays, acting in her position as best friend and severest critic. She is a history major and loves it; but still, a big part of her heart belongs to music. She loves the chant, and picks it out on the piano with one finger. And did you know she dabbles in composing, with results which are not bad at all? Add to these recommendations an exceedingly rare ability to get up before the bell in the morning, a true Bostonian's love of lobster, and underneath it all, a real understanding and sympathy for others.

MARION is one who puts us all to shame for careful and conscientious work. Not one to put things off until tomorrow, she does them today, and so avoids that huge pile of put-off assignments that most of us have to face before vacation or exams. But don't think she is completely super-human, for she shares our universal love for sleep and can always be tempted to join you in a little snack. Marion takes life calmly, just as she does the frequent teasings of her friends. A quiet, warm smile is one of her characteristics, and also an enviable faculty for seeing the bright side. With such a gift, she has nothing to fear.

ANTOINETTE COSTA

TONI enjoys seeking out the interesting and unusual in life — the little quirks and oddities which most of us pass over, and which give a human-interest touch to people and things. Somewhat paradoxically, she is at once quiet and full of life; a calm, competent, independent person who takes life in her stride and can cope with any emergency. Invariably neat and well-groomed, Toni has enviable poise and style. With her grand sense of humor, she is also a wonderful friend — obliging, kindly, sincere — for Toni herself values friendship very highly and takes the time and trouble to understand people.

FIRST take a helping of cool, practical efficiency, then sprinkle liberally with a gentle charm, and your finished product will be Mary. As the capable head of the Letter Writing Committee, her efficiency comes to the fore, but up in the day-hops room and elsewhere we have found her to be sincere, unselfish, a real friend. We will remember her clear, smooth, speaking voice, that little winning smile, and the fragile beauty in her heart-shaped face. The poet might well have had her in mind when he wrote,

“Serene, and resolute, and still,
And calm, and self-possessed.”

IVACIOUS Viv we call her, and the name describes her personality perfectly. She is the closest we have come to seeing effervescence personified; she is the original advertisement for Kellogg's Pep. Underneath her gaiety there is generosity, unselfishness, and depth of character. Everybody's friend, her power of leadership is well known, and was especially demonstrated in the Book Drive. Remember the clever skits she planned and starred in to help speed up contribution? Viv somehow finds time between her weekend and various extracurricular activities to be a good student, too. We will long remember her excellent taste in clothes, her grin, that diet of Clark Bars, and the Mexican silver bracelets covering her arm from wrist to elbow. V is for victory, and also for Viv.

YOU might call Peggy the “unofficial jester of the Class of '43”, for wherever she is, there is laughter too. It just seems to follow along behind her. Maybe her grand sense of humor comes from being one of a large family, as probably does her ability to get along well with everybody, to be serious as well as gay, to think of others before herself. Talented at writing prose and poetry, her short stories and poems appear often in the Essay. They all have her own touch, a sort of homey quality, which one doesn't find too often. They and she remind us that “sweet is the smile of home.”

Dramatics and science (the latter her major) are only two of her many and varied interests; and she loves to discuss them all, particularly in Spanish at an incredible rate of speed. Puerto Rican to her fingertips, she loves the poetry of Garcia Lorca, old Spanish music, and dancing; and she has an acute understanding of the problems of her country. Individualistic, scintillating, intensely dramatic, Piri has given us contact with the spirit that makes the Latin-American countries so intriguing.

REALLY a "live wire," Mim is the life of every party. The stage is her hobby — her Mercutio left us convinced of her talent as an actress. Her scholastic interests find Mim an able participant. We have often waved good-bye to her as she started off on those "mysterious" sociology field trips. Mim is never at a loss for thinking up a truly amusing joke that sends even the unsuspecting victim eventually into gales of laughter. Not only will we miss her spirited repertoire in the Red Room, but also that "lucky gremlin" perched on her shoulder, guiding both her pen and personality to certain success.

TIME goes by so quickly, moments fade and are lost in the oblivion of hours, days and years; yet, unlike time, there are some things which are imperishable, they remain forever, enkindling hearts and inspiring spirits. We, at Manhattanville, have known someone who has left us this legacy. She has the strength we all desire, the humor we all enjoy, the friendliness by which we all are won. An unpretentious charm and a forceful practicality, these are hers and she has shared them with us. She is one of us, and yet stands out, on the Heights, beckoning, that we may follow. She combines dignity with a genuine interest in us all. Our college days have been filled with her, and they are the better for it. Now, as time draws the shades of '43 and the path down the hill is worn by many feet, we see her walking with them, yet she must be here for we can hear her voice, we can see her. She is in the heart of Manhattanville, giving her spirit and her ideals. She is there because she is Sue.

GIVE Mary a hammer, a few nails, and an extension cord, and in the manner of a 1943 Aladdin, she can produce the scenery for any play, down to the last detail. Efficient without being officious, possessing an enviable amount of tact, she has been an excellent president and organizer of the Glee Club and Madrigals. Despite long hours spent in lab, probing the mysteries of the handiest thyroid gland, Mary has entered whole-heartedly into the spirit of Manhattanville — in athletics and clubs, with a willingness and general helpfulness which have made her presence so welcome. All these qualities, coupled with her directness and confidence, balanced by genuine friendliness and understanding, personify for us the Mary for whom we predict great things.

IN keeping with her auburn hair, Peggy has a lively and refreshing personality. She is one of those fortunate people who can find a grain of humor in any situation; and for an English major, who has to write countless term papers, such a sense of humor is a handy thing! Though she dotes on literature of all types, Shakespeare holds the limelight on her list of favorite authors. Never flurried or upset, but a firm believer in the prudent middle course, a good conversationalist, and a patient listener, Peggy is one of those perennially good-natured people whom it is always pleasant to have with us.

“YOU are a poet and that puts you on another plane from ordinary men.” Sally’s own words have given us the key to her unique and refreshing personality. Somewhat of a paradox (after the manner of her favorite author, Chesterton), she is a poet and idealist, but a delightfully down-to-earth conservative as well. Although she is interested in the arts, and in anything pertaining to Merrie England, we’ve discovered she has a passionate fondness for English muffins and the movies. Sally has never failed to charm us with her exquisite and moving verse — it has marked the high point of her college career; and it has served as an inspiring example to the English Club, of which she has been so excellent a President. A warm-hearted, generous person, Sally possesses a deliciously witty sense of humor that has made her company immensely enjoyable.

“G RETA” is without a doubt the person you like to meet, especially when you are discouraged over exams or an overdue paper, and unlike her namesake, she is extremely sociable and a veritable center of activity. She organized the Sunday tea dances with the competency and tact of an accomplished hostess. Her long hours in the lab have not dulled her spontaneous wit. Neatness, spiced with originality, marks style in her costumes. Her cheery “good-morning” in the Tea Room has always roused a response from the most lethargic coffee-drinker, and the Ace of Spades is attracted to “Greta” as a magnet, for her bridge hands are always termed the perfect ‘4 no trump,’ Blackwood. Well-groomed, cordial, smiling, we have enjoyed her fleeting though recurrent visits to the gym and tea room as much as her colorful concert in the Spring. But perhaps more than anything else, we have relished exchanging careless "badinage" over one of her great weaknesses: an avid baseball fan, we are sure that only a subway strike could keep her from cheering the Dodgers 'round those bases and on to the pennant. The Brooklyn team has had many friends and faithful followers, but surely, Helen is one of the most charming.

An engaging "strawberry blonde," she has proved to be an indispensable person to her class, both as their vice-president and in an unofficial, friendly capacity. Enthusiastic about Catholic Action, energetic on the class basketball team, original in her thesis on the place of the negro in the American novel, we marvel at her congenial, composed fashion as she knits briskly or amuses us with her latest pun. With a clear, low voice, and keen brown eyes, Meg has been generous, kindly, and entertaining with all of us. ADELAINE SCHUBERT, E. de M.

91 North Henry Street, Brooklyn, New York

Our Lady of Wisdom Academy, Long Island

ADELAINE plays the piano beautifully, but her interest in music goes far beyond just one instrument. She seems almost to live in a world of music, surrounded by the symphonies, concertos, chamber music, and piano compositions she understands and loves so well. And as for composers, she'll take the three B's, thank you. "Schubert" is a good student as well as musician, sincere and earnest in her work. She has a grand sense of humor, and loves to play practical jokes when the opportunity presents itself. Unassuming about her own talents, she is the first to admire and compliment those of others. Always there to help when you're in a tight spot, she's as true a friend as you will ever find.

DISCERNING, jolly, and completely efficient, Jean is definitely irreplaceable. As Head of the Missions, she has enlivened our interest in the field afar, and her apostolic news items at assemblies have never failed to increase both our zeal and entertainment. We often wonder how she can reconcile the slides of her inevitable microscope with honours in her hand as she makes a grand slam in the Tea Room. We will never forget, moreover, her technical touches in many dramatic productions. Jean is always herself, but undoubtedly more than anything else, it is her sincerity and spontaneity that will make her always unforgettable.

HER drawl rolls on as easily as that well known Swanee River and is just as lovable. Anne can smile and everyone waits for the infectious laugh that's sure to come. New York winters are chilly but they are warmed up by an expansive sense of Southern hospitality. Knit one, purl one, but never drop a stitch, is but one thing among all that she is doing for our coming victory.

WE hereby nominate Marilyn as a likely candidate for the title of "the girl with an all-around personality." To us she is the happy medium personified, blending sincerity, humor, efficiency and understanding in just the right proportions. A member of the Children of Mary Council, she sets an example it would be well for us all to imitate, and takes part in numerous other activities. In spite of all this, she is completely unassuming, unaffected and wonderfully likeable. A Missouri drawl, a love for good books, and a distaste for hurrying are among her characteristics. We have also found her loyal, completely reliable, and blessed with an easy, good-natured sense of humor that is quite irresistible. To our "altar-girl" we reluctantly say farewell.

IF anyone possesses the ability to see things calmly and objectively, Rosaleen certainly does; her chuckle could draw an answering grin from the most down-hearted person. A good-natured enthusiasm pervades everything she does, whether it run the gamut from Bach to badminton. Her music is an integral part of Rosaleen, and the organ is her primary interest; when she accelerated, the class of '44 lost one of its finest musicians. Could we ever forget her inimitable accompaniment at choir practice? Or those expressive mobile eyebrows? Very sincere and even-tempered, Rosaleen has a balance and a sense of humor that can carry her through anything.

EILEEN can't help but be a success in everything she undertakes. Poise, charm and intelligence make her a reigning queen. Not only the history but also the future of Eileen is linked with a certain blue Ford that shows up at college every afternoon, i.e. until the recent gas ration. Eileen gave more than a "Tinker's Dam" when she bought out the orchestra at the Blackfriars and led Manhattanville to invade 58th Street. She is a born leader; President of the Debating Club and Financial Committee, she keeps every club before the public eye. To Eileen, Manhattanville owes more than the "Immortal Sergeant."

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

THEIR Freshman laughter, like water chattering in a brook, grew greater and stronger with the added years. Each class has something to offer to the college and '43 has shown the spirit of quiet giving in a crisis. They have lived up to their class song as 'valiant daughters of Manhattanville.' Competent leaders, they have led the college with their enthusiastic support of the defense program. It seems but yesterday that we stood before their hazing committee but a flash of time and now they are graduates. Four years have passed in preparation of this graduation, four years of growing. They took with them their freshman simplicity, their sophomore spirit, their junior responsibility to make up a senior leader. The Book Drive will hold unprecedented place in the annals of the college. They have "arrived." The time has come to say good-bye to their good will, their sportsmanship and loyalty, to the fun we have had with them at the song-fests in the gym, in discussion in the tea room. We propose a salute to the seniors in this, their Tower of 1943.

JUNIOR SONG

JUNIOR CLASS HISTORY

IT was a new world when we entered Manhattanville in September, 1942. Not only had we exchanged our freshman white for junior cap and gown, but, in an atmosphere of war, we had lost our peaceful and soft life. All our responsibilities piled upon us and we loved it. A sister class made us older and when they came through the hazing we crowed like proud mothers. As a class we took up war work, many of us plunging into Nurse's Aide at the first call and working through the holidays. Mother Saul's description of Juniors, that "they just begin to learn," came true. We learned to be grateful to a warden who had an uncanny sense of knowing us, to a college that gave us strength before all. Jody and Elly, "Kind Lady," 'our' freshmen; there were still things to make us gay.

It is a dawn of peace that we look to in the months to come. To our fellows, the Seniors, we dedicate the 1943 Tower in the hopes that the conclusion of this conflict will bring them new strength and a constant happiness.

SOPHOMORE CLASS HISTORY

THE Class of '45 announced its advance up the academic scale when its Hazing Committee donned cap and gown for a three days' schooling of the "infant" Freshmen. They know now the thrill that comes once in a lifetime, being able to deliver instead of to receive. But belying the literal translation of their name, they have shown themselves just as talented in serious affairs as in the realm of merriment; and they have avoided the "letdown" that often follows the first excitement of Freshman year.

Their talent is sprinkled in all Manhattanville habitats since they have equal aptitude for study, clubs, and fun. We gaze with envious amazement at their orators, their actresses, their singers, but perhaps in athletics they have been at their best. Varsity teams have claimed many Sophomore recruits, and the spirit and skill of the class have shown to good advantage in the friendly struggles for basketball, hockey, and swimming cups.

With Mari and Dotty setting the pace, their sister class, the Seniors, may rest assured that the traditions of the college will pass into capable hands in '45!

FRESHMAN SONG

It's the loyalty of spirit,
The unity of heart,
The one for all, the all for one
That makes us each a part
Of Manhattanville! Manhattanville!
Our lips will spread your fame!
And the class of '46 will never
Ever forget your name!
And the class of '46 will never
Ever forget your name!

Words and Music by KATHLEEN BALL

SEPTEMBER sixteenth ushered in one hundred and twelve bewildered Freshmen. After the laughter-provoking but revealing hazing, the class of '46 became an integral part of the college. Soon after Thanksgiving the Freshmen settled down to the job of elections. They showed their excellent choice by voting Pats Skakel and Norton for class officers. The vivacious personality combined with the spirit of leadership make Pat Skakel an ideal president while the quiet efficiency and friendly charm of Pat Norton make her an equally good V. P.

The budding Bernharts, the future Flagstaads and the promising Portias assure glory for the major clubs in the next three years, for the class of '46 has quickly caught the spirit of Manhattanville.

The Juniors "wish the luck of Ireland" to you, our sister class.

ACTIVITIES

STUDENT GOVERNMENT

MANHATTANVILLE turns from the uncertainties of the world to find stability in its strongest institution. Forceful, energetic, and competent, Student Government is the source of order on the heights. Each member of the college, from Freshman to Senior, participates in the work of the Council at least once during the year through the "Proctor System." Student Government, then, stands not merely for the giving of the law, but for the living of the law.

The success of any government depends on the loyalty of its members and the devotion of its leaders. And as our democratic government is elected of the college, for the college and by the college, so S.G. is composed of the Presidents and Vice-Presidents of the four classes. We love them in spite of their "demerits." Manhattanville-ites realize their responsibility, and appreciate the spirit in which they have assumed it.

True to tradition, Sue and Meg have fulfilled our trust in them. Their serious interest and grand sense of humor have brought us the Golden Mean.

THE Welfare Committee has continued this year as the college 'Board of Etiquette,' with Patty Cameron as Chairman. Although the war has, and will continue to make many changes in college life, it can never change the spirit of Manhattanville courtesy. It is true that the silk shortage left the college stockingless, while the cold weather and curtailed heating program brought a 'back to the woolens' campaign. But these are only minor problems and can not alter the essential principles for which Welfare stands. The committee, which is composed of seven representatives from the student body and a corresponding number from the faculty, has a two-fold purpose. It determines collegiate standards in matters of social intercourse and holds a controlling hand on all extra-curricular activities. And whenever we think of Welfare, we remember too, that punitive device, the social censure, which is incurred by any infringement of the code of good manners, and is a check on surplus exuberance.

MISSIONARY ASSOCIATION

JEAN STANCLIFFE has led the college to cheerfully give to the missions in spite of the demands for the war. The Missionary Committee, composed of elected representatives of each class, has varied activities such as providing clothes for the poor, money for the Missions and Christmas baskets. The Annual Bridge Tea and Fashion Show was exceptionally successful this year, as the war has curtailed so many of the other social activities of the college. Our Missioners carry with them the spirit of charity.

BROWNSON HONOR SOCIETY

IN existence only since 1940, when it was established by Mother Dammann, the Brownson Honor Society is a symbol of the intellectual pursuit of Manhattanville. The object of the society are to give recognition to the outstanding students of the Junior and Senior classes and to encourage an appreciation of the formal end of Catholic education.

Not only intellectual power and industry, but also intellectual interests which show promise of continuing in the future are necessary qualifications for members.

DEFENSE COUNCIL

WAR has become a reality and Manhattanville is aware of the part it must play in the National Defense Program. In view of this, a council has been formed which puts before us a plan of attack, and whose work has been unusually effective.

It is because of their good work that we dedicate the Tower of '43 to their aim — to set before the eyes of the college the necessity of our taking part in the war.

THIS IS OUR WAR

GLEE CLUB

"CHICAGO'S own" Mary McCall lays her gavel down before a bigger and better Glee Club. Always with their fingers in the pie, the songsters present a picture at many gatherings. Mother Morgan adds the spice to their activities that makes for hilarious and excellent entertainment. Their performances have become traditional at Manhattanville. Every Christmas we thrill to the carols; every spring we enjoy the operetta. The Gondoliers marked a new high in their always delightful production.

CHOIR

OUR earthly seraphim create a spiritual setting for the High Masses at the College. In spite of their sleepy eyes at the practices before Sunday Mass, they would never exclaim, "Oh, how I hate to get up in the morning!" Twice a month they sing a Mass, one for the men in service, and another for those who gave their lives for the country. Lovers of Gregorian all, the choristers are taught by Mother Morgan to know Church music and to love it.

THERE is one word synonymous with a true Child of Mary. That is love, love of God, love of our fellow men and a real relationship with Heaven. As Catholic women the Children of Mary want to see the unbleached truth and to follow it as adults, with strength. The Sodality of the Children of Mary brings the spiritual into everyday life and faith into every undertaking. The meaning of "E.deM." is strongly felt in all activity. It is that extra friendliness, that unasked kindness, that stimulating smile, that makes life worth living. But the heights of spiritual growth can never be excelled. Here's to a steady climb on these, Manhattanville's heights.

THE DRAMATIC ASSOCIATION

TUESDAY evenings at Manhattanville have become a tradition. The upper classmen trek off to Glee, Debating and Dramatic Clubs. This year the Dramatic Club has followed the rest of the college in limiting their activities so that more stress can be laid on war work. Kay, as president, and Hubby, as V.P., have served the club well in meeting all the difficulties of 1943. The Dramatic Association presented for the first time in its history, a play of a faculty member, William Thomas Walsh's "Carmelites of Campiegné." In a lighter vein a rehearsal of "You Can't Take It With You" was given in the hope that it might be produced in '44.

Through the untiring devotion of Mother Saul, Mrs. Livingston, and Mrs. Herlinger, the club has concluded another successful year. Another stone has been laid towards the building of talent and cooperation, that is the club's birthright.

ESSAY

ON the pages of the Essay lies the literary work of Manhattanville. Would-be authors are given a preview to their lives as writers. The rigor of war conditions this year left its mark on the Essay which consisted of only one issue, curtailed in size but not in quality. A note of originality was added by the anonymity of the contributions which enabled the Board to judge the selections with a greater degree of impartiality.

ENGLISH CLUB

THE English Club continues alone bearing the standards of the other minor clubs, which have "gone to war." Although much of our extra curricular activity has been curtailed, some traditions linger to keep us in touch with the "good old days." Such is the annual fete of the English Club, heightened this year by the puppet production of "Romeo and Juliet." The new system of closer relationship between the three units promises greater cooperation in the future.

DEBATING CLUB

Mary Spann, Eileen Williams
(President), Natalie Leonard,
Alice Dunn.

THE Debating year 1942-43 fully achieved its aim of stimulating lively interest in public speech and in present day issues. Contrary to its traditional round of activities, the Club convened weekly, alternating debate and discussion sessions. The committee and members regretted that it was no longer possible to continue competitive debates with other colleges, because of the lack of proper transportation. However, not inactive, the club entertained the college with two public discussions on pertinent current problems: "The Far Eastern Question and the Atlantic Charter" and "Post War Germany Relative to the Peace Program of Pius XII."

All of the members propose a vote of thanks to Mother Tenney, their faculty advisor, to Mr. Bernard O'Connell their coach, and to Miss Eileen Williams, their president, for tireless work and assistance extended.

CATHOLIC ACTION COMMITTEE

WHAT is Catholic Action? It is a response to the Pope's plea for a united effort to extend the knowledge and influence of the Catholic Church. Manhattanville answers the call again. In spite of the stress of the war effort, the Catholic Action Committee, under Bobbie Eccles, brought Catholicism to the fore with as much zeal as in the past. The program is the same: one forum a month, and activities in Apologetics, Interracial, Catechetical and N.F.C.C.S. programs. Each student is active in one of these groups. It is with pride that we point to one of our most successful projects.

ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

SEPTEMBER found Manhattanville turning calisthenic-conscious, taking her place in the nationwide physical fitness program. Here again we felt the effects of the war-time regulations. A. A. showed its strength by remaining active in spite of oil-rationing and fewer inter-collegiate games. Times had changed! Varsity Hockey gave up its trip to Rosemont. The Basketball Squad wore heavy sweaters to practice. However, the class teams and tournaments continued to provide the interest and competition on which the college thrives. Under the leadership of Miss Farmer and Miss Wandelt, and of Joan Byles, the student president, A. A. manifested and fostered the feeling of good sportsmanship and co-operation which has been so evident in the physical training program of Manhattanville. And to Mother Stoepel is owed a special vote of thanks for her generous support and enthusiasm as faculty advisor.

REFLECTIONS

- of you and your classmates upon your school life achieve immortality in a carefully planned and executed yearbook.

- From the arid desert of Arizona, and the sultry green island of Puerto Rico, to the snow-blanketed slopes of Northern New England, we have traveled, happy and proud to have been an instrument in the translating into print, the humor pathos, excitement, and sentiment found in the campus
- life of over seventy-five colleges and preparatory schools.

- As former members of yearbook staffs in our school days, we bring into our professional duties a real understanding
- of the many problems confronting each yearbook editor.
